RICHMOND MAN FINDS 15 CENT FUND SURPLUS

(Special to Record-Herald)

Independent Democratic Official Paper of City of Richmond

PRESIDENTIAL OUTLOOK

In deliving into the political history for the past few years in the United States, the New York World says that in 1904 the Democrats nominated Judge Alton B. Parker for president in order to get rid of Bryan.

In 1916 the Republicans nominated Justice Charles E. Hughes for president in order to get rid of Roosevelt.

The Parker campaign ended in rout and disaster, because the radical Democrats would not follow a candidate whose nomination was brought about and whose campaign was managed by the Wall street Democrats. Is the Hughes campaign destined to end in rout and disaster for similar reasons?

Thus far the parallel between the two candidates is striking.

Mr. Bryan supported Judge Parker in 1904 in much the same way that Mr. Roosevelt is now supporting Mr. Hughes. In fact he made a greater display of regularity and loyalty, but the radical Democrats believed that they had been betrayed into the hands of reactionary politicians and hundreds of thousands of them deserted the candidate.

The Republican managers are already worried about the apathy of the Hughes campaign. It is a matter of general belief that Mr Hughes is much weaker today than he was when he was nominated. His candidacy has gained no strength. On the contrary, it has lost strength.

Mr. Hughes may be depended upon to present the Republican case against the president with exceptional skill and vigor, but how much of a case has he? What can he say that has not been said dozens of times by every other critic and faultfinder? There are no concealed facts to drag into the light of publicity. There are no scandals to be exposed. All the administration's work is a matter of record. Every intelligent citizen is as familiar with it as Mr. Hughes can be. It has been discussed from every point of view and from every angle Mr. Hughes' indictment may be more comprehensive and excoriating than that of some of the president's other critics, but no matter what language he employes everything has been said that there is to say, and President Wilson is stronger today than he has been at any other period of his administration.

Whatever politicians say or do it is the people who make the issues. They will make the issues in this campaign. They know as much about the White House as Mr. Hughes knows. They know whether they like it or not, and why. There is nothing the Republican candidate can tell them on that point, and he cannot shake popular confidence in the president unless he proves that he himself would make a better president. On that issue the country has Mr. Wilson's achievements in the midst of the greatest crisis of modern history to balance against Mr. Hughes' promises and the record of a corrupt Republican party that is still under corporation control.

Alton B. Parker was an able man and a good judge. As a candidate for president he had immeasurably stronger issues than Mr. Hughes can present, but his candidacy dwindled and died. It did not meet the situation, and it is not impossible that a similar fate awaits the candidacy of Charles E. Hughes.

THE ANNUAL PLAYTIME

A citizen present the other evening at a spirited front porch debate on the subject of vacations reports that most of the debaters seemed to prefer seperate vacations for husband and wife.

The women nearly all took this view. Not that they cared particularly about getting rid of their husbands. Their preference was unselfish. They expatiated on the desirability of a husband being able to get away from all women, and return to the primitive comfort and unconventionality that is the inalienable right of males. Any man who wants to "rough it" for a couple of weeks, they agreed,, ought to be allowed to do it, alone or with congenial male companions.

There is usually trouble, anyhow, suggested one very frank woman, when husband and wife go vacationing together. For however well they may "hitch" in their home routine, when they start away for a good time in a new environment there is inevitable pulling and hauling. One wants to go by train, the other by boat. One wants to go fishing, the other to attend a lawn party. One wants to tramp in the country, the other wants to go to a show, and it usually ends in a compromise that satisfies neither. Why shouldn't the husband go and take his ideal vacation, and the wife hers? The rest from each other, too, would do them good. They'd appreciate each other all the more afterwards for the separation and the specialized good times they'd had.

But a man who confessed to several years of wedded life took up the problem from a new angle. "The trouble with many couples," he said, "is that they take their pleasure too seriously. To them the means, the method of taking recreation, is more than the end sought. Philosophers tell us that happiness in contained within ourselves, and that the precise manner of bringing it to realization is non-essential. In other words, pleasure is an attitude of mind, whether during vacation or at desk or kitchen range.

"Once the intention to have a good time is fixed in the mind, what matters it whether it's the seashore or mountains, the butternut shirt or chiffon frock?"

He and his wife, he says, take their vacations together. They simply hold a little council over the dinner table, decide where they will go, and then, at noon of "the" Saturday, start forth. No matter about the details. Their vacation begins, for them, at one minute past noon on that particular Saturday, and it lasts until the moment of their return.

They don't care much what they do, or where they go. The great think is the sense of freedom, the lack of restraint, the absence of necessity for doing any particular thing, changing their plans as often as they feel like it, adapting themselves to circumstances, refusing to take anything seriously—and get along together beautifully, and come back rested.

And aren't they right about it?

Here's a pair of uncertainties: When congress will adjourn and the new city hall will be occupied.

As a business investment, the West Indies aren't worth a pickel; as a military possession they might prove priceless.

NOTES FROM THE PLAYHOUSES

PANTAGES THEATRE (Oakland)

Breaking all records for summer shows and for summer houses at the Oakland Pantages, the mammoth bill this week at the Twelfth street temple of vaudeville has established a new mark in Oakland's theatrical history. In the first place it is one of the biggest and most expensive bills ever sent to Oakland. In the second place, it solves the mystery of the Laughing Mask, for that mysterious individual takes off his mask, discloses his identity, and brings the wonderful picture serial, "The Iron Claw" to an end. But, perhaps best of all, it has brought to Oakland the wonderful court artists of the Shah of Persia, in the big Al Colem company of Oriental pantominists and acrobats. This is one of the most stupenduous attractions ever offered in vaudeville. "The Slave Dealers" is the name of the groundwork of an Oriental pantomime, gorgeous in coloring, in which the most remarkable whirlwind acrobatic features and necromancy are blended. The act is a riot of color and whirlwind of death defying feats. It cannot be described, but can only be appreciated when seen.

There are other big features on the bill, Joe Roberts, king of the banjoists, who offers real music on the homely American instrument, Mabel Harper, the celebrated "nut" comedienne, and Storm and Marston, in their unique sketch, "His Alibi," the Brown Fletcher Trio in a novel musical offering, and other big hits.

Next week comes Rita Gould, the inimitable. Miss Gould, a Winter Garden star in New York, is one of the celebrated women of stageland, she and Al Jolson making the two record hits at the great New York show-shop.

She will offer some of her greatest successes next week in her Oakland engagement. Miss Gould is unique among American comediennes. She can impersonate any type of woman, and get fun out of her—or tears, if she wants to, for she is a true artist, and can play on the human heartstring as she wishes.

GIRL SWIMS FROM MARTINEZ TO BENICIA

(Special to Record-Herald)

MARTINEZ, August 9.—"Babe" Wright, who recently swam from Martinez to Army Point in the record time of 58 minutes once more swam Suisun bay yesterday afternoon. She dove off the end of the city dock in Martinez at exactly 12:13 p. m. and the stop watch pointed to exactly 1:13 when she climbed ashore at the Benicia ferry wharf. She followed the ferry course on this second swim.

Mrs. Tipton and Lizzie Curti, accompanied the fair swimmer in a launch.

THEDA BARA AT REGENT THIS EVENING

Tonight, at the Regent theater, William Fox presents his greatest star, Theda Bara, the Vampire woman, in what is admitted to be her greatest creation, entitled "Gold and the Woman," for it is in this remarkable production that Theda Bara shines and fascinates as a Vampire woman, who, in short, is what would be termed, a home destroyer, a woman who lures a man away from his wife and children, and in this character, Theda Bara, is at her best.

The Fox production tomorrow will be "The Mysteries of Myra" in a new episode of interesting spirit mysticism will be shown along with a very good added program, including "The Follies of Youth."

ARLETT POUNDED BY COLUSA; LOSES GAME

MARTINEZ, August 9.—Martinez took a day off Sunday and "Pop" Arlett and Schwake took a run up to Gridley to do the firing act for Gridley in the game at Colusa in the Trolley league. Arlet was touched for seven safeties and lost 4 to 2. Henley was on the mound for Colusa and allowed only five hits.

"BABE" DANZIG NOW WITH S. O. TEAM

"Babe" Danzig is no longer employed with the San Francisco Pacific Gas and Electric company, which team he won the pennant for by his capable pitching. The ex-coaster and Martinez first sacker has been secured by the Standard Oil company as an office man and incidentally he will be a player on the company's fast team.

BENHAM PITCHES MERCED TO VICTORY

Artie Benham, the clever little southpaw, who had a tryout with the Seals in the spring of 1915, pitched Merced into a 2 to 1 victory over the Modesto Reds Sunday, wherefore there is rejoicing in Merced. The Reds have so long reigned supreme in San Joaquin valley baseball that any man who could defeat them naturally figures as something of a hero. Benham held them to five hits, and in addition helped himself out with a home run. Artie Black is catching Benham at Merced. He is regarded as one of the best young catchers in California.

PATHOS CENTERS IN FILM PLAY "THE CLOWN"

When "Slivers," the famous clown who made hundreds of thousands laugh and chuckle in his day as the leading comedian of the tented ring, took his own life in New York City recently because of despondency, much was said and more was written about the tragedies which accompanied the closely shorn head, the powdered face and the painted cheek and eye. In his tragic ending "Slivers" maintained to the last some of the greatest traditions of the clown, who always has been a tragic figure of the drama. One of the most famous illustrations of this conception of the clown is in the opera "Pagliacci," which the great Caruso plays so realistically.

Victor Moore, the Lasky-Paramount star, one of the greatest comedians of the screen, has undertaken a clown characterization in a Lasky production for the Paramount program in "The Clown." He is pictured herewith in earnest conversation wit ha goose. As the goose is a stout, healthy appearing bird, it is not unlikely that something tragir is aimed in her direction also.

"The Clown" will be shown at the Richmond theater this evening.

On the same bill is a Charlie Chaplin comedy entitled, "The Fireman" and a one reel Jungle production "Napoleon the Great and Sally His Mate."
